

Monitoring and Evaluation Packages:

With the federal and state focus on all students making AYP, none of us in education can afford to wait until the end of the year to evaluate the success of the school improvement/student achievement goals we have put in place in our districts or schools.

We need our goals to be written as SMART Goals with specific, multiple, ongoing ways to measure and monitor their success in increasing student achievement, but even more than that, the results need to be used immediately to impact student learning.

TEP understands this need and can help you implement effective ways to monitor and evaluate the learning systems you are putting in place in your district or building.

See the following pages for specifics.
